UK's Centennial Program To Hear Festival Report

SPECIAL TO FULTON NEWS FROM UNIV. OF KY.

Eleven Kentucky women from communities throughout the state will head a special panel discussing the unique role of the American woman in today's changing society when a special Centennial conference is held Oct. 24-26 at the University of Kentucky.

Mrs. Paul Westpheling will be a panelist. Mrs. Westpheling has been asked to speak on Fulton's International Banana Festival, outlining the significance of the event's international relations program as well as the community's ability to stage such a mammoth undertaking.

Notebook

It won't be too long before the 1965 Banana Festival will be orderly relegated to the most pleasant annals of Fulton's history. The store decorations, gay pennants, hospitality booths, and office records are being carefully catalogued and filed away until plans get into motion for next year's event, which will be as soon as a new board of directors is named and new officers selected from the board.

The attractive cabanas that housed so many interesting exhibits have been dismantled and stored away so that next year it will be no problem to erect them again, much earlier we hope! The telephone has been disconnected at Festival headquarters and Connie Pawlukiewicz, the efficient, calm, the understanding executive secretary will spend the next several days writing thank you letters to the many people and organizations who helped to make the Festival the success that it has been acclaimed.

There are those who will criticize some of the activities in less than constructive terms, but everybody who worked untiringly to stage the event has a stock remark for the criticism. They say: "Okay, you might be right... how about taking over next year and doing the job like you think it ought to be done." That almost stops 'em cold, because usually the people who complain about such things are those who took no part in the work of the Festival at all.

Meanwhile back to normal living! Currently the students in the schools around us are writing their annual essays in the Courier-Journal's Water Conservation Contest. The story goes that one student at Fulton High told his teacher:

"I'm going to write about Goldwater... he's a Conservationist!"

Ever since R. Paul has been away at Bellarmine College in Louisville we have tried to talk with him about every ten days. Last Sunday if I had not had Mary Jo and Paul as witnesses to the telephone conversation I believe that I would've pinched myself to see if I were alive. I asked how he was getting along with his studies, his leisure hours, his new-found friends.

"Fine," he replied. "There was a mixer at Catherine Spalding College last night, but I just went for a few minutes because I had a lot of ironing to do."

That's what the boy said... he actually said that... the other two members of the family heard him with their little ole ears. I vaguely remember hearing a similar remark on the Sunday after the Festival when R. Paul was here with a delightful young fellow by the name of Dick Zular (I think that's the way you spell the last name). It seems like I heard R. Paul call upstairs to Dick saying that Dick could have the iron because he (R. Paul) was finished ironing his shirt. I dismissed the whole conversation as the delirium from Festival fatigue. But it was true. It was, it was. They both ironed their shirts before going to church and there was Ozie in the kitchen big as life.

In another conversation we were asking him about his finances as we tried to analyze the adequacy of his monthly allotment. When asked for a hasty accounting he said: "Well, there's Tide, and Clorox and bus fare to the laundrette." Here's a guy who wouldn't walk to the Derby Cafe from home,

Part of the university's Centennial celebration, the conference will explore the education, problems, the image and responsibilities of women in American society today.

Speakers will discuss a wide range of topics including moral attitudes toward the population explosion, myths of femininity, women's expectations, and women's education needs in the next 50 years.

The conference is open to the public.

The panel session, set for Tuesday morning, Oct. 24, is part of a series of discussions and lectures planned for the conference entitled "Women: Equal But Different."

Additionally, six out-of-state persons in the fields of education, medicine and homemaking, all of whom have had wide professional experience tailored to the conference topic, are to participate in the conference.

Kentucky women, chosen because their lives are successful examples of adapting to a multi-role existence, are: Mrs. James Allen, Washington, conservator of history and heritage; Mrs. Barnett Bale, Elizabethtown, poet and literary critic; Mrs. Dann Byck, Louisville, civic, cultural, political and business leader; Miss Betty Lester, Wendover, Frontier Nursing Service, and Mrs. Harry Caudill, Whitesburg, housewife;

Miss Rossi Drummond, a Berea College graduate, vocational representative, Peace Corps, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Louise Hutchins, Berea, planned parenthood director; Mrs. William Ray Miller, Quicksand, teacher; Mrs. Story Musgrave, Lexington, housewife; Mrs. Byron Tapp, Waverly, home economist; Mrs. Paul Westpheling, Fulton, civic leader.

Other out-of-state conference lecturers include Ethel Nash, assistant professor of preventive medicine, Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Winston Salem, N. C.; Drs. Kenneth and Ellen Keniston, Yale Medical School's department of psychology; Caryl Kline, assistant to the chancellor for women's education, University of Pittsburgh; June Cameron, school board president and housewife, Mt. Lebanon, Pa., and Dr. Kate Hevner Mueller, professor of higher education, Indiana University.

Other Kentuckians on the conference program are Mrs. Barry Bligham, Louisville, Mrs. Eliza

Grant From Governor Breathitt Makes New Library Possible

Fulton's beautiful new library, made possible through a $30,000 grant by Governor Breathitt and additional support by the Fulton Library Board, The Fulton City Commission and other governmental units was discussed at the Fulton Women's Club meeting last Friday by Mrs. Arch Huddleston, a member of the Library Board. Stocked with hundreds of new volumes the library soon will be opened to the public. Shown above are four Fulton students who showed the new library to Patricia Ballesteros, Miss Ecuador, while the lovely lady toured the library during the recent Banana Festival. From left to right are: Cheryl Underwood, Miss Ballesteros, Judy Oliver, Judy Lambert and Betty Bealies.

Death of Jim Huffine Recalls His Friendly Nature, Civic Devotion

James H. Huffine Jr., manager of the H. I. Seigel garment factory at South Fulton, was fatally injured about 5 p. m. Saturday when his car rammed a bridge rail on Interstate 40 between Dickson and Nashville.

The Highway Patrol placed the scene of the accident about 11 miles east of Dickson. Jim was alone in his car and there were no other vehicles involved.

The South Fulton man reportedly was en route to Nashville where he planned to attend the Alabama-Vanderbilt football game. He was 40.

Jim Huffine was one of the friendliest most likeable men we ever knew. His loyalty and dedication to the giant garment firm by which he was employed made it appear a completely local industry because of Jim's concerted public relations activities. He was interested in everything of a worthwhile civic nature in the twin cities and was called upon frequently to participate in community programs.

Red Devils and Bulldogs Giving Opponents Rough Time On Field

If the Fulton Bulldogs intended to "show out" last Friday night at Memorial Field they certainly accomplished their mission.

The Bulldogs played like they were inspired and their flawless performance was a delight to the large homecoming crowd that attended.

Scoring seven touchdowns, four extra points, plus a field goal, the Bulldogs dominated play in every department and held Greenfield, to a mere 50 yards rushing, while they picked up 292 yards on the ground. It was a great team effort.

Cited for outstanding defensive play in the contest were Wayne Lohaus, Loyd Bond, Robert Thurmond, Ronnie Bennett, Eddie Williamson, Mike Butts and Buddy Myers.

Fulton made 14 first downs, while the Yellowjackets failed to make a first down. Fulton completed five out of seven passes, while Greenfield did not complete a pass in five tries.

The Bulldogs now have two wins against four losses. They play Fort Campbell Saturday at 2 p. m. there.

The entire squad saw action in the game last night, with the fresh-

Rev. Dukes In UK Conference For Economics

The Rev. Denzel L. Dukes of the First Baptist Church, Fulton, participated in an economic conference sponsored by the Kentucky Clergy Economic Education Foundation and the University of Kentucky.

Approximately 50 ministers of all faiths attended the four-day meeting held at Boone Tavern, Berea. Ministers are selected by the heads of the denominational churches to participate and receive scholarships to cover all costs.

Economic problems from the point of view of labor, management and agriculture were discussed. It was pointed out in the discussions that clergymen, through sermons and counseling, are responsible for helping citizens to develop understandings of today's economic order—its nature, problems and potentialities.

It was also decided that to do this satisfactorily, clergymen need to understand current economic issues.

You Can't See A Sports Event Without A Forrest, That's Sure

(Ed's Note: We saw "Bones" Forrest in the grocery store the other day and asked him if he wasn't proud of the way the Forrest family was making sports headlines again. Bones replied: "Which one?" We had reference to David Forrest who did right well in Fulton's homecoming game last Friday at Memorial Field, but now we can understand the remark Bones made. Charlie Forrest also made headlines last week as is indicated in the following story that appeared in Sunday's Louisville Courier-Journal. It follows.)

MOREHEAD, KY.—Tricky Charlie Forrest, a ball-handling wizard at quarterback, kept Murray on the ground in the second half and drove the Racers to a 13-12 college football victory over Morehead.

The slight-of-hand treatment spoiled homecoming festivities for 9,000 fans who saw Morehead dominate the first half on the pinpoint passing of Mike Gottfried. But the Eagles could never put together two first downs in a row in the second half until the final three minutes.

Bill Giannini, a pre-med student who sizzles in the classroom, colored both Murray touchdowns and gained 109 yards in 21 carries in his finest-ever performance. Gottfried, the passing quarterback in the Ohio Valley Conference last season, reached the end zone on a sneak and hurled 22 yards for the other Eagles touchdown.

Extra-point strategy proved decisive. Forrest converted to give Murray a 7-0 lead in the second period. Tom Merry's place kick went wide

If Hickman Or Another City Needs Recommendation For City Manager Government, Ask Festival Folks!

The citizens of Hickman, Kentucky will vote in a referendum on November 2 to decide whether to change from the councilmanic to the city manager form of government. We recall that when this question was put before the voters here there was sharp opposition to the change-over, and there may still be, for all we know, but we feel now as we did when we supported the issue several years ago that it is the most efficient, most economical, most progressive form of government in this country.

Now that some of the "kinks" have been smoothed over since the inception of the program, the city manager forms of government in both Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee are exemplary models of efficiency, administered like progressive private businesses and free of all the petty intrigues that prevail when local office-holders have to make routine decisions concerning water leaks, alley boundaries, garbage collections and other such time-consuming matters.

Having been rather actively engaged in staging the recent, highly successful Banana Festival, we can say without fear of contradiction that had it not been for the city officials, the city managers and every last one of the city employees in both cities the Festival never would have gotten off the ground.

Nobody, but nobody knows, how City Managers Rollin Shaw and Henry Dunn, Jr. and their respective maintenance foremen W. D. Powers and James Hickman worked in every major and minor detail to coordinate the civic activities of the Festival. Of course, all of these men had the full sanction of their elected officials to help wherever they were needed and they did, night and day, in good weather and bad, in pleasant and unpleasant tasks, in related and unrelated duties to their municipal jobs.

In the city-manager form of government such progressive and vitally interested public officials like Mayor Gilbert DeMyer and Commissioners W. P. Burnette, Bill Scott, Charles Robert Bennett and Ward Johnson of Fulton and Mayor Rex Ruddle and Commissioners John Reeks and Harry Allison of South Fulton, give the "full speed ahead sign" to the city managers to build a greater city and take part in every worthwhile civic endeavor.

From then on the city managers take over and from then on it is a most happy partnership. There was never a day that both city managers and both maintenance chiefs did not walk into Festival headquarters and ask what could be done to help. They didn't ask what kind of job... they just followed through on the requests made of them and even improved upon them when they realized the tremendous amount of detail that was contingent upon the headquarters staff.

This is not to say that the councilmanic form of government could not operate equally as efficiently. But it is to say that the city manager form of government is just that... managing the myriad of details for the elected officials, who serve with little pay and who can ill afford to take the time away from their respective businesses to attend to the constant demands made upon city administrations.

It's like so many of us said so many times during the Festival that "there must be a special place in heaven for the city officials, the city managers, the maintenance men and every last city employee of Fulton and South Fulton for the work they did during the Festival."

And don't think our visitors didn't notice this efficiency too! Particularly do we remember the comments made by United States Ambassador to Ecuador Wimberly Coerr and Mrs. Coerr and Minister-Counselor for Economic Affairs of Ecuador Gustavo Polit as we drove them around the city during their visits here. Said they: "What a clean and bustling city... the streets are clean... the parking is efficient... the town seems alive with activity."

This didn't come about by happenstance. It came about because our city manager forms of government are efficient and cooperative and that's an accomplishment you don't find everywhere. As far as we're concerned we feel much like the cigarette commercial... "we'd rather fight than switch to any other form of government for our twin cities."

Juvenile Crimes Decrease When Publicity Is Given

For what it is worth, a Tennessee weekly, the Clinton Courier-News, reports that "the number of felonies involving juveniles has decreased by 40 percent in county outside Oak Ridge since court was opened to news media." The weekly has made it a practice for a year to publish the names and addresses of juvenile offenders and their parents or guardians. This policy has been applied to all juveniles convicted more than once for minor traffic violations and to those convicted on any other charge.

The Courier-News reports that the 40 percent decrease "came in the area served largely by the Clinton Courier-News. In Oak Ridge where the local paper does not print the names of all juveniles, the decrease in felonies was 12 percent and there was a marked increase (16 percent) in traffic offenses, while in the county the number of traffic offenses dropped nearly 30 percent." Judge W. Buford Lewallen commented in a Courier-News story, "While I can't be sure that publication of names is responsible for this remarkable decrease, I believe that it has served to make parents more cognizant of what their children are doing."

When asked if he thought the publication of names of offenders might encourage the more sensation-seeking youngsters to commit crimes as their names would be published, the judge said, "That has been charged by several people and there hasn't been much evidence to support it. I have had parent after parent and child after child ask me to keep their names out of the paper and I know the Courier-News has had similar requests. Of course, we can't leave out even one name."

Turning Back The Clock--

October 12, 1945

The Fulton Chamber of Commerce, in a meeting last week, brought into focus the community's attention upon the flooding of Harris Fork Creek, which inundates much of the business district every now and then. Definite help has been assured from the States of Kentucky and Tennessee, as well as from the Illinois Central Railroad.

All rural people of Fulton County are urged to sign up Saturday, October 13, at the Hickman-Fulton Counties RECC in Hickman, for electric service on their farms.

Fulton City Council, with Mayor T. T. Boaz presiding, met in regular session Monday night. Action was taken by the city dads to turn the traffic lights on again in Fulton. During the war the stop lights have been cut out for the purpose of aiding in the conservation of gasoline. Traffic lights are located at the corner of Fourth and Lake Street Extension, State Line and Carr at intersection, Fourth and Eddings intersection, and Church Street and State Line intersection.

New officers installed by the Young Men's Business Club at their meeting Tuesday night were: J. R. Hogan, president; Carter Olive, vice president; Donald Hall, secretary; Paul Bushart, assistant secretary; B. J. Pigue, treasurer; M. E. Etheridge, sergeant-at-arms; Foad Homra, Joe Hall, P. H. Shelton and Eugene Hoodenpyle, directors.

From Route 3, Fulton; Oley Hendley and wife returned from Detroit and moved to their new home, Will Arnett's Store, where they hope to continue in the grocery business.

From Route 5, Fulton: Herman Matheny came home Monday for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Nola Matheny, and other relatives and friends. He has an honorable discharge and will enter Vanderbilt University after Christmas, to finish his delayed education.

From Crutchfield: Richard Myatt has purchased the home of Herschel Elliott, which was bought several weeks ago by Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Duke. All will move in the near future.

From Austin Springs: S. Sc Lucian H. Abernathy, Jr. arrived a few days ago from Bainbridge, Md., naval base where he has just finished "boot" training. Upon his arrival home, he was united in marriage to Miss Imogene Jackson, daughter of Frank Jackson of Lynnville. The wedding was solemnized in Mayfield.

From Dukedom Route 2: Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hunter have moved back to our community from Nashville. We are glad to have them back and extend to them a hearty welcome.

From West State Line: Miss Katherine Worrell is suffering from bruises received in a car wreck Thursday night. Mrs. Ruby Hayes, who was also in the wreck, is still in the Fulton Hospital.

The Cayce Community Cannery made much progress in the month of September in processing food. 345 quarts of vegetables were processed in glass, 68 quarts of meat in glass, 1040 No. 2 cans of fruit, 5090 No. 3 cans vegetables, also 470 No. 3 cans of meat.

foot pole, for they suggested plain, country, somewhat boorish folk; and she always saw to it that she left the impression that she was of far higher status. Both good old greens—sallet to dozens of generations living and dead—need no apology now.

I just love to walk down the line in a big-city cafeteria and see how many people, obviously of country origin, sometimes, but not necessarily so, choose as one of their vegetables greens, especially the prince of all the greens, turnip greens. Sometimes I love to hear these very people call the dish turnip sallet, accidentally or on purpose.

In Fidelity, and around Mammoth Cave, too, people used to look down their noses at cottage cheese. Our local Fidelity name for it was poor-folk cheese. We felt that when milk was sour and had had the butter removed or the cream skimmed off the top of the clabber, the rest was pig food and nothing else.

Not long ago, in a wayside eating place where hundreds of tourists stop, one of the managers told me that cottage cheese was the item most often ordered as a single dish by hungry people, especially in the afternoon.

And she agreed with me that there was nothing better to eat in the whole place in spite of her and my having been reared without cottage cheese.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

FRANKFORT --

The state bond issue proposed on which Kentuckians will vote November 2 is as simple as this:

—For the $176 million in bonds issued as the result of a "yes" majority, the State will be able to construct highways and buildings costing more than $860 million.

—The Commonwealth's continued economic growth alone, without any increase in either the tax rate or the tax base, will assure adequate, annual revenue to retire the bonds.

Some $139 million, about 78 per cent of the proposed bond money, will be used to continue Kentucky's road-building program. The remaining 22 per cent is earmarked for the construction of needed state building projects.

With dedication of the new, 72-mile Bluegrass Parkway scheduled for October 27, and in view of the recent announcement of plans for a major highway through South Central Kentucky to the Tennessee line, my thoughts currently are on roads.

The State has issued general obligation bonds twice during the last nine years to finance Kentucky's share of the Interstate Highway Program.

Had bonds not been approved for construction of these modern highways that contribute so greatly to Kentucky's economic growth, it would have taken the State—under present tax structures—until 1977 to build the roads that are now in use.

In outlining plans for the South Central Kentucky highway extending south to Tennessee from the Bluegrass Parkway, Commissioner of Highways Henry Ward pointed out that its financing would be directly into passage of the bond issue.

So, also, directly or indirectly, will be the financing of other roads and highways.

The $139 million of the general obligation bond issue proposed for building highways, with $597 million in matching money available from the Federal Government, will buy a total of $736 million worth of new and improved roads for Kentucky.

In more detail, that portion of the bond issue to be used in road building will make possible an appropriation each year of some $14 million for the Appalachian program—with the Federal Government putting up seven times that amount.

It also would enable the State to put up about $15 million for the primary system and the Federal secondary system, the so-called farm-to-market roads. This money would be matched dollar for dollar by the Federal Government.

The State also could appropriate about $10 million each year for the Interstate highway system, with the Federal Government contributing $9 for each $1 of state money. The system could thus be completed on schedule, in 1972.

It should be pointed out here that the Federal Government requires all Interstate and Appalachian mileage to be under contract by 1970.

One thing that must be remembered in weighing the advisability of the bond issue is that the cost of highway construction is rising at the rate of three per cent a year. Total cost increase in the last 10 years has been 27.2 per cent.

Kentucky must provide new, big roads to continue to attract new business and industry and tourists, and to provide safer, and more economical travel for all.

Nearby states are in the midst of ambitious highway development programs and we must meet their challenge or be by-passed. Ohio has voted a $500 million issue; West Virginia has a $200 million program, and North Carolina approved one for $300 million.

Education, health, welfare, agriculture, parks, airports, are some of the divisions of State government that will benefit from the $736 million remaining of the $176 million bond issue. I plan to discuss these and Kentucky's need for them in future columns.

SCATTERED PATTERN

About People and Things

The Third International Banana Festival brought people to the twin cities from all walks of life. State and national government officials, diplomats and thousands of just plain people were loud in their praise of our community effort. For months to come we will be receiving clippings and reports of the national and international coverage our Festival received, from former residents and from discriminating people who were almost astonished that a community the size of ours could stage such an event demanding such detailed planning and efficient execution.

Two well known columnists have devoted their current releases to our Festival. Elsewhere in this issue you will notice that Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell Butler, who attended the Festival, praised our efforts.

Another columnist, world traveler, international diplomat and ambassador of goodwill and charm, Mrs. John Sherman Cooper, wife of the United States Senator from Kentucky, devoted her column this week to the Festival with glowing tribute to its success and significance to furthering the cause of friendly relations with our Latin-American friends.

Mrs. Cooper, whose gracious and charming Georgetown home is the gathering place for the world's notables in every field of endeavor told this reporter that she is going to personally discuss the program of our Festival with people who ought to know about it and who ought to help us stage it. This lovely lady made a great effort to attend the Festival as did Senator Cooper, whose travel schedule got so involved with weather hazards and transportation connections that he just couldn't get here, although he was on his way.

Mrs. Cooper was here for the Friday afternoon and evening events and for Saturday's parade. That she was pleasantly amazed at our program is evidenced by her column that follows and that is published in many newspapers in Kentucky and the Nation.

Here's her column. We reprint it with gratitude and pleasure.

Ladies and Gentlemen, have you ever been to the Banana Festival in Fulton, Kentucky, and South Fulton, Tennessee? If not, please take your correspondent's advice and go next year. This national event—and it is national, I saw it listed as such in a New York paper—is only three years old. I will quote its history which I found in the program:

Bananas are of the most important products in Fulton, Ky. and South Fulton, Tenn. The popular tropical fruit comes in rail cars from various Gulf ports where the huge banana boats unload. In the twin cities, every rail car of bananas is checked for temperature and condition, iced or heated, as the weather requires, and routed on to banana processors throughout mid-America and far into Canada. Over three and one half billion pounds of bananas have passed through these twin cities in the past decade.

These twin cities wanted to grow... such growth needed a demonstration of community spirit, and willingness to support and cooperate with business and industry of the area... the rumble of banana cars reminded them of their most unique industry... the Banana Crossroads of America... in such manner old friends and kinfolks that he knew were also here for the week-long event. Charlie did us a real honor to come by the house for a few minutes just to let us know that he was here. He's one of our very favorite people and we appreciated his visit.

The week's mail brought a card from Florence and Frank Beades postmarked Paris, France. Florence advised that they were having a wonderful time with a lot of other General Electric folks with whom they had traveled before. She also said that Switzerland would be a good place to rest after the pressure of the Festival. Of that we have no doubt... but we'd even take Pea Ridge if we had the time to rest.

Another of the Fulton Hardware and Furniture Company staff will be winging overseas soon when Guy Upton and his wife take off for a visit to Rome, Italy. You notice that we put the countries after these cities... we don't want you to think it's Paris, Tenn. or Rome, Ga. Frank and Guy were awarded the fabulous trips as a result of their large volume of sales of particular products handled by the pioneer Fulton firm.

Clinton Negro Sentenced In Brutal Slaying

Leroy Pitts was sentenced to life imprisonment in Hickman County circuit court last Tuesday for the brutal murder of Mrs. Maude Davis while she slept alone in her country house in the Springhill community the night of July 7, 1963.

Pitts, a negro, was convicted on his plea of guilty. He first entered a plea of not guilty then changed it to an admission of guilt in open court.

Investigation at the time of the brutal slaying disclosed Mrs. Davis had not been discovered until several days after she was beaten to death.

Earlier this year while investigating another similar incident in the same community—only this time the intruder had been frightened away before making entry—Sheriff

Hopkins came to suspect Pitts. When witnesses reported seeing his car parked in the vicinity of the attempted break-in at the time of the crime, Hopkins moved to arrest Pitts, but the accused fled the county and state. He was later apprehended in Michigan and while being returned to Kentucky by Sheriff Hopkins confessed to the attempted break-in and also the murder of Mrs. Davis.

Pitts told Sheriff Hopkins his intentions in both cases were to sexually molest his victims.

Four Rivers Council Joins Presidential Program For Conservation, Natural Beauty

The Four Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced today that its 3400 boy members will join the nationwide program of furthering natural beauty and conservation instituted by President Johnson.

The President has pointed out that the success of this program hinges not only on what the Government and industry can do, but on what each citizen does in his own front yard, on the street where he lives, in his local community, and on the highway approaches to town or city where he lives.

"Natural beauty is more than a rich resource of pleasure and recreation," says President Johnson. "It shapes our values. It molds our attitudes. It feeds our spirit, and it helps to make us the kind of men and women that we finally become. And the kind of men that we finally become in turn makes this great Nation."

Mr. Henry Whitlow, President of the Four Rivers Council, said today that the Boy Scouts are a natural participant in this program since there are many elements of a program of natural beauty and conservation in its ongoing program.

He pointed out that in the Cub Scout achievements there are gardening, flower gardening, and landscaping. There are conservation requirements in each of the Boy Scout ranks. Among Explorer activities are the posting of the Outdoor Code at family campsites, schools, and playgrounds, the making and placing of "spruce up-clean up" posters and collecting litter along highways.

Mr. Whitlow said the council has suggested to its members a series of individual Good Turns as well as unit service projects.

Cub Scouts are encouraged to plant window boxes with flowers or sidewalk tubs with trees or shrubs; front-yard flower gardens; making litter bags for family or neighbors' cars and displaying posters on the Outdoor Code.

Boy Scouts are being urged to landscape their own yards with ornamental and wildlife food trees or shrubs, make front-yard flower gardens and display posters on the Outdoor Code for school or store windows.

Explorers activities may include planting flowers, ornamental trees, or shrubs in their own front yards, growing trees or shrub seedlings in backyard seedbeds, later transplanting the seedlings in public places. Individual Explorers may help Cub Scouts build and maintain window boxes and help neighbors clean up yards and keep them attractive.

Unit Projects
Under adult leadership and in cooperation with property owners, Cub Scout packs can clean up unsightly neighborhood areas. They can plant grass or flowers around their meeting places, public buildings and plans and maintain a garden plot in a park.

Union City, Tenn.

Feeder Calf Sale Results

Last week's feeder calf sale at Newbern which Obion County farmers consigned calves to, handled 1,211 calves with a top price of $26.25 per hundred established on a pen of 20 choice Hereford steers weighing from 405 to 450 lbs. One pen of 18 good Herefords, 350-400 lbs., sold at $26.00. Bulk of the good and choice steers sold from $24.75 to $26.00 and medium from $22.10 to $26.00.

Heifers, all grades, sold from $19.50 to a top of $22.00 paid for a pen of 15 grading good and weighing from 450 to 500 lbs.

Twenty-three Obion County farmers consigned calves to the sale and we counted 16 Obion County farmers at the sale bidding for calves to bring back to feed in Obion County. Livestock leaders estimate that over 600 calves were brought back to feed lots in Obion County from the Newbern sale.

Flame Will Be Used To Kill Alfalfa Weevils

Last week we started two alfalfa weevil control plots in Obion County on the farms of Mrs. Charles A. Barham, and Mr. C. F. Fowler & Son. The plots were fertilized according to Soil Test and next February the plots will be flamed with Butane or Propane Gas to remove most of the vegetative growth. According to latest alfalfa weevil research the flame method kills the adult weevils present at time of flaming, destroys the weevil eggs, worms, and winter weeds and grass. These alfalfa weevil control plots using flame should be very interesting to observe. The University of Tennessee may recommend the flame method in addition to the use of insecticides.

Forest Firefighters Warn Against Careless Burning

Firefighters across the state will ascend their lookout towers during the second week in October to begin their semi-annual surveillance of Kentucky's forests. The coming of October signals the arrival of the fall fire season and State forestry officials are hoping to duplicate the record achieved in forest-fire control during the season last spring.

A total of 1,243 fires were recorded during the spring season—the lowest number in the history of state forest-fire protection. Spring fires usually run between 2,000 and 2,500, according to State Forestry Director Gene L. Butcher. "This fall, the main fire hazard will come from the burning of trash, refuse and dumps," Maynard Marcum, who heads the forestry division's fire-control program, said. "Also, we have a great worry because some outdoorsmen set fires to dead tree stumps to rout game, and this causes a great number of fires," Marcum noted. "We urge all hunters to be careful with fire as they hunt in old fields."

The fire lookouts will man a network of 154 towers, strategically located throughout the state's fire protection system.

All but 16 of the towers were constructed with steel. Butcher is hopeful that the remaining wooden towers can be replaced with steel ones through funds contained in the $176 million bond issue to be voted on November 2. The Forestry Division is slated to receive $100,000 from the bond issue.

"The wooden towers were constructed during World War II," Butcher said, "and are constantly in need of repair."

Butcher noted that additional manpower this fall will make it possible for tighter enforcement of the state forest-fire laws.

Six Local Farmers Receive Claims From Dog Damage

The Department of Agriculture has made payment of $21,021.25 in claims through the State Livestock Fund, Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell F. Butler has announced. According to Butler, the money went to farmers who had livestock destroyed or damaged by stray dogs during the past fiscal year.

Butler said checks were mailed to 542 farmers whose claims had been approved by the Kentucky Dog Law Advisory committee. He said the payments were made on the basis of the total amount of money available through the Livestock Fund.

Local livestock producers getting payments and the amount they received were as follows:

Ralph Adams, R. 4, Hickman, $2.00; Leo Cissell, R. 2, Hickman, $1.50; George W. Newton, R. 4, Hickman, $0.50; J. G. Varden, 204 Pearl St., Fulton, $0.50; Hubert Wilkins, R. 4, Fulton, $1.00; Hubert Wilkins, R. 4, Fulton, $2.00.

You can't push yourself ahead by patting yourself on the back.

A gem cannot be polished without friction, nor man without trials.

With JIM FRYOR
Agricultural Agent, Union City, Tenn.

CALF CARE IMPORTANT

This season of the year we should be thinking of the baby calves now on the farms, or will be within the next few weeks. There can never be too much stress placed on the proper care and management of the young cow herd, so I thought it would be well to discuss it today.

It goes without saying that the first few hours are the most important in the early days of the new born calf. Proper sanitation and early nursing will be considered top on the management list. After three or four days the dairy calf should be gradually converted to the nipple bucket and milk replacer - as milk is very high price feed. The nipple bucket should always be kept clean as to milk replacer, if the directions are followed to the letter, and the calves kept just a little hungry and very dry, there should be very few problems with other management requirements. It is also wise, whenever possible, to separate calves into age groups with 3 to 4 to the pen. This will correct a few other problems that may arise from crowding.

A balanced ration of at least 15 to 17 percent protein is desirable and should be kept before calves at all times after two weeks. The very best hay available should be added to the ration at this time too. All calves should be dehorned with an electric dehorner before they are three months old. The electric dehorner is clean, fast, and HAS NO AFTER EFFECTS OR OPEN WOUNDS!

I have used several very effective grain rations on heifers and here is one that has given satisfactory results: 200 pounds of crushed ear corn, 200 pounds of crimped oats, 40 pounds of soybean oil meal, 12 pounds of trace mineral, and 40 pounds of molasses. At current prices this will cost you approximately $14.50 for the 484 pounds batch. This ration I used on older calves after the 17 percent protein ration stage. In this ration, any portion you could furnish would naturally reduce the cost. It is NEVER advisable to grind hay, for baby calves or cows in milk!

When the calves are at the proper age, under 8 months, you should have them vaccinated and do your part in keeping our community bangs free. Keep yourself posted on new developments on health and sanitation practices for your future herd.

Remember, the proper care or neglect you give that baby calf today will surely be reflected in the milk pails of tomorrow. Many of our top dairymen have grown into the dairy business rather than buy into it.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE

by Wendell F. Butler
Commissioner of Agriculture

The week of October 10-16 has been proclaimed by President Johnson as "National School Lunch Week." The school lunch program has been in operation for more than 18 years and is presently making wholesome lunches available to over 18 million children in some 70,000 schools.

Reports on Kentucky show 449,334 children in 1,436 schools receiving assistance through the National School Lunch Program. The program requires that the participating schools serve the children at least one-third of their minimum daily nutritional requirements.

Foods for the Kentucky program are made available through the Department's Division of Commodity Distribution. Director Tom Lewis reports that the Division also makes foods available to 69 other schools that are not participants in the National School Lunch Program. Beyond this, rural one and two-room schools which lack modern facilities for cooking and serving hot lunches also receive assistance. Many of these schools improvise facilities in order to serve hot lunches to the children. To date there are 372 schools in this phase of the program, serving the needs of 11,619 students.

C. E. Bevin heads the State's Division of School Lunch, and is responsible for administering the over-all program. The school lunch program is an important part of the educational system. Students need wholesome lunches, as children cannot study in the proper manner if they are lacking proper nutrition. These lunches are prepared on the basis of providing a well-balanced diet. In some cases, the meal eaten in the school lunchroom may be the best one the boy or girl eats during the day.

This "Buy Kentucky Products Month" and I would urge all Kentuckians to note home-grown and home-manufactured products when they go shopping. While I hope that they will look for Kentucky products throughout the year, special promotion is being given State products during the month of October. The purpose of the month is to acquaint the producer, processor, manufacturer, wholesaler, retailer, consumer, and other segments of our public to the wide scope of industry and business which make up the economy of our State.

Kentucky has many fine products already being manufactured throughout the State and the potential for growth and creation of new products is good. We must be sure, however, that desired quality is maintained all the time. When the label "A Kentucky Product," is placed on an item for sale, the buyer will be able to buy with confidence each and every time. To a great extent, once a product has been placed on the market, its name should speak for its quality.

The theme of this special promotion is "What Kentucky Makes Kentucky." This tells well the purpose of the campaign. Your support of Kentucky products is support for Kentucky's economic growth.

REACHING NEW Heights

Man has explored most of the earth, and has now set out to conquer space.

While achieving these marvelous works, let us not forget our creator.

"When I consider thy heavens, the work of thy fingers, the moon and the stars, which thou hast ordained; what is man that thou art mindful of him? and the son of man, that thou visitest him? For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels, and hast crowned him with glory and honour. Thou madest him to have dominion over the works of thy hands; thou hast put all things under his feet..."

ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

and now he says sometimes he walks the seven blocks to the laundrette to save the money. The slogan for Bellarmine should be... "send us the boy and we'll send you a valet" and in less than two months, too!

Abe Martin and Laurence Holland will love this remark as much as we do. On another occasion I asked him why he didn't write more often, whereupon he said: "Listen mother after four hours of studying every night I'm too bushed to write." He does read well about his writing, though. And here's some revealing information to parents who get frustrated with the bickering that sometimes goes on between teen-age brothers and sisters—as sometimes Mary Jo and R. Paul did when they were younger. Do you know that Mary Jo gets a letter from R. Paul almost every other day.

Mary Jo reads the letters avidly, while I fidget wanting to know what's in them. "She just smiles and says... 'he said to tell you and daddy hi.' Sure glad that boy's in college... I'm sure learning some lessons from him!"

Services were held at 1 Monday afternoon in the Curry Funeral Home chapel in Dyersburg. Burial followed in Fairview Cemetery.

The South Fulton industry closed down at 11 a. m. Monday so that employees could attend services.

Jim had been employed by the Siegel factories for 14 years. He spent four years with the plant in Dickson and then became manager at the Fulton plant. When the new and larger plant was opened in South Fulton five years ago, he left the Fulton plant to manage the new factory.

Active in civic and church work, Jim was a past president of the Fulton Lions Club and a member of the First Methodist Church. He participated in the annual Lions club minstrel, the club's major fund-raising project. He was a member of the Fulton Country Club and a better-than-average golfer.

Jim was born and reared in Dyersburg and was employed by the Curry Funeral Home before joining the Siegel organization.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Lois Davis Huffine; two daughters, Bobby Evelyn Huffine and Dorothy Jean Huffine, and a son, James H. Huffine III, all of South Fulton; a brother, Ralph Huffine of Elroy, Ariz.; two sisters, Mrs. Stel Hupka and Mrs. Lawrence Grossman, both of Nashville, and his mother, Mrs. F. E. Wyatt of Dyersburg.

after the Eagle's first touchdown. Murray stopped Tommy Eads at the two on the conversion try after Morehead moved in front 12-7.

So Forrest's boot gave Murray its first win of the season. Last week he missed a place kick in a 17-17 tie with Eastern.

"Forrest is fabulous on the option-keep play," said Morehead coach Guy Penny. "He picks your defense to pieces," he added.

Forrest drove Murray 55 yards in 13 plays on the first series of the 13 plays on the go-ahead touchdown. Two offside penalties on the eager Morehead line covered seven of the last nine yards.

Forrest "rode" fullback John Bryant off-tackle, then flipped out to Gianni, who skirted left end for two yards and a touchdown.

"Isn't that Forrest something with those flips?" Murray coach Don Shelton shouted in the elated Racer locker room.

Special Night Set To Honor Coach J. Story

A "Jack Story Appreciation Night" will be held at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, October 14, in the Mayfield High School gymnasium sponsored by Coach Story's fans and friends in West Kentucky.

The special event will honor veteran basketball coach Jack Story who resigned as head basketball coach at Mayfield in August due to ill health.

Story, known as the Dean of West Kentucky Basketball Coaches, is also recognized as one of Kentucky's best prep coaches.

His coaching career in West Kentucky spans 20 years dating from his first coaching assignment at Fairbanks, in south Graves County, in the mid-1930's.

Story made his mark in basketball record books when he coached the Cuba Cubs to a State Championship in 1952. Over the years his teams won 476 games.

Many of his former players credit their later success in the playing and coaching fields to his coaching and leadership.

The "Jack Story Appreciation Night" is planned by fans throughout West Kentucky in recognition of Coach Story's ability as a coach, his teaching of good, clean sportsmanship to his players, and for the friendship and leadership he provided for them.

Scheduled during Coach Story Appreciation Night is a barbecue supper followed by a program and presentation of awards.

Cost of the tickets is $4, including all tax.

Many of Coach Story's former players have already purchased tickets and most of his former players are expected to attend plus hundreds of fans and friends.

Tickets may be purchased from several individuals connected with the special event and from the following businesses in Mayfield and Graves County:

In the County: Cuba TV and Appliance Company and Rhodes Grocery in Cuba; Denham and Ray's Grocery in Sedalia; at the Post Office and at Buckman's Grocery in Fancy Farm; Majors Insurance and Real Estate Office and Holloway's Hardware Store in Wingo; Watson's Grocery in Farmington; Heath and McClure's Grocery in Symonsia; Drew's Grocery in Hickory; and a location in Lowes to be announced at a later date.

In Mayfield, tickets may be purchased at Junior's D-X Service Station; Hill's Drive-In; Hicks' Drive-In; Hunt's Athletic Goods; Locksley's Goods; Wyatt's Rexall Drug Store; Myer's Lumber Company; and Merck Clothing Company.

In addition to the above locations, tickets may be obtained at each County high school and at Mayfield High School.

Of interest to Homemakers

FRUITED PORK CHOPS, tender crescent rolls and steaming mugs of coffee will make a good start on a dinner menu some night soon when the evenings get chilly and appetites recover from their summer slump.

Pork Is Good Eating, Plain Or Glamorized

Fresh pork is more of a fall and winter dish than a summer one—and now's the time that your family will enjoy its succulent richness.

The thing to remember in preparing pork is to cook it slowly and be sure it is completely done.

Roast pork should be firm, tender and juicy, never dry or crumbly. The meat should be grayish-white in color without the slightest tinge of pink. The surface should be crusty but not hard, and uniformly brown. The juice should be yellowish-brown—never pink.

Any good cookbook can give you cooking times for various cuts. They run about 35 to 45 minutes per pound. The oven temperature is usually 350 degrees.

Other good pork dishes are pork chops, ribs, and recipes containing pork as one of the ingredients.

Fruited Pork Chops

- 6 pork chops, 1 inch thick
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (1 1/2 ounces) pineapple tidbits
- 1 can (11 ounce) mandarin orange sections, drained
- 2 tablespoons well-drained sweet pickle relish
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon sugar

Coat pork chops with a mixture of flour, salt and paprika. Brown chops well on both sides in butter or margarine. Arrange in shallow casserole. Combine undrained pineapple tidbits, orange sections, relish, soy sauce, cornstarch and sugar; mix and pour over chops. Cover with foil, and crimp securely to edge of casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until meat is fork-tender, 1 to 1 1/2 hours. Serve plain or with hot seasoned rice, as desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Chinese Barbecued Pork
(From "Proof of the Pudding")
2 pounds pork chops, cut 3/4-inch thick with the ribs and fat on (pork shoulder or butt may be used, cut in strips about 1 1/2 inches wide and 4 to 6 inches long.)

- 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 4 tablespoons soy sauce
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1 tablespoon rice wine, or 2 tablespoons sherry
- 2 tablespoons Chinese vegetable sauce (apple or pineapple sauce may be substituted)

Sprinkle or rub pork with salt and sugar, and let stand 2 hours or more. Dry with clean towel. Mix soy sauce, garlic wine and vegetable or fruit sauce thoroughly. Soak pork (as prepared above) in this mixture about 30 minutes. Remove pork, place in broiler or roast in 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. Lower heat to 350 degrees and roast 20 minutes on a rack. Turn off oven, let some of the heat out, and keep pork in oven until ready to serve.

Pork with Broccoli

And Tomatoes
1 pound broccoli, diced and cooked in boiling salted water until almost tender.

In a pre-heated, heavy 10-inch frying pan place 2 tablespoons oil or fat, 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper.

Cut 1 pound lean pork into one-third inch cubes and add to mixture in frying pan.

Finely dice and add to mixture 2 tablespoons onion and 1 clove garlic.

Cook over moderate flame until the pork is brown, stirring constantly.

Add 1 cup chicken bouillon. Cover pan tightly and cook over a low flame for 10 minutes. Add cooked broccoli.

Cut into four pieces each and add 4 small tomatoes.

Cook over a low flame for 1 minute. Blend together and add to above 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 teaspoons soy sauce, 1/4 cup water.

Cook a few more minutes, stirring constantly, until the juice thickens and the mixture is very hot. Serve immediately with hot, boiled rice.

Roast Spareribs

(Chinese)

In a large mixing bowl place 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons honey, 2 tablespoons soy sauce, 1 cup chicken bouillon. Mix well.

Add 3 pounds spareribs. Soak spareribs for 1/4 hour, turning occasionally.

College Boys Will Pass Now Or Be Drafted

LOUISVILLE — College students who are not showing satisfactory progress in school this year will be subject to the draft, the national director of Selective Service says.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said increased draft calls will mean that many of the nation's two million male college students will no longer be automatically deferred.

"We've been very liberal with college students," Hershey said.

"There are some who are going to be drafted now who wouldn't have been last year."

Hershey said the law provides that if a student is not showing satisfactory progress, he will be subject to the draft.

College students who get on academic probation or who drop out of school for a semester would be prime targets, he said.

Thus, the general said, Selective Service will be taking a hard look at the students when semesters end.

Hershey estimated roughly that 5 to 10 per cent of the nation's college students would be affected.

Hershey also predicted the draft will continue for at least a generation because of increasing unrest in the world.

"Of course, I didn't see an end to the draft when it was talked about. There was never any time a majority of the people ever thought it would be ended."

He referred to reports, rampant mainly last year, that the draft would be abolished in favor of a volunteer system.

Hershey said the increasing draft calls have resulted in lowering the age of inductees. Now, he said, it's about as low as it can go, 18.

The general said Selective Service will also be looking toward young married men without children to fill the calls.

He gave no estimate of what percentage of this group would be affected.

Hershey said the reports on abolishing the draft drastically cut enlistments until August and September, just after President Johnson ordered the draft doubled.

The draft abolishment talk "was based on hope—not on fact," he said, but "enlistment went to pieces" as a result.

Hershey said there is just as much of a need for the draft now as there was in World War II.

"There's more confusion in more continents," he said.

"World War II didn't affect as many continents," Hershey said, "as we're seeing in Asia and Africa and said Europe is not altogether stable."

"If you have to have a lot of men," he added, "you've got to have a way to get them."

Governor Forced To Hitch A Ride, After Being Left

COVINGTON, Ky. — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, who usually gets first-class transportation at the snap of a finger, had to stick out his thumb Wednesday.

It seems that aides on three buses carrying business and government leaders on an industrial tour all thought the governor was aboard another bus.

He wasn't. Breathitt was talking to a group of South Shore school children as the buses moved away.

Gov. Breathitt, Garrison, was picked up when the well-dressed governor was picked up turned out to be the governor. He drove Breathitt to Vanceburg, more than 20 miles away.

It just wasn't Breathitt's day as the 30th annual Kentucky Governor's Tour of Industrial Development came to a close.

The governor departed from his schedule and passed up a boat ride down the Ohio River to Covington so he could address a Municipal League meeting in Western Kentucky.

When the boat arrived near Newport, pupils from a California grade school, the 117-piece Campbell County High School Band, and more than 100 residents were there to greet the governor. But no governor.

Breathitt, instead, flew back to Cincinnati and then drove here to address a dinner gathering of 200 Northern Kentucky business leaders.

After plugging for the $176 million bond issue, he departed from the schedule once again—returning to Frankfort instead of spending the night here.

Highway Dept. To Accept Bids On Road Work

The Department of Highways of the state of Tennessee, has given a preliminary notice of its intentions to receive bids on two highway construction projects in Weakley County which will cost an estimated $645,000.

The department listed the projects as:

The grading, drainage, surfacing with crushed stone or gravel or chert and bituminous materials (plant mix), construction of sidewalks, curb and gutter on a short section, and widening of one existing concrete deck girder bridge on a section of State Route 22, beginning at a point 0.01 miles west of the western city limits of Martin and extending to State Route 43 in Martin.

The grading, drainage, surfacing with crushed stone or gravel or chert, the installation of highway signs, and the construction of one bridge (pre-cast, pre-stressed concrete T-beam) on a section of secondary route 8236 beginning at S-8015 three miles south of Dresden and extending to the new State Route 22 one mile north of Gleason.

The department estimated that the first project would cost $413,000, would cover 1,106 miles and should be completed in 150 working days.

The second project is estimated to cost around $232,000, involve some 5,018 miles of highway and be completed in 150 working days as well.

The bids will be received at Nashville on October 29.

Frigid Uses For A Special Steel

One of the most successful market growths among new steel mill products in the United States is currently being enjoyed by a special 9 per cent nickel steel for super-cold applications. Although it was introduced for cryogenic applications only five years ago, when less than a million pounds were produced, this year's production is expected to exceed 15 million pounds.

Invented in the research laboratories of the International Nickel Company, 9 per cent nickel steel, unlike ordinary steels, does not become brittle and will not fracture at extremely low temperatures. It is used, primarily, for equipment to store, transport, and handle liquid gases at cryogenic temperatures as low as -320°F.

One of the most dramatic uses for 9 per cent nickel steel has been in equipment to transport natural gas to Europe. A special ship, the Jules Verne, has been launched to haul annually more than 15 billion cubic feet of liquid methane between Algeria and France. The natural gas is liquefied and reduced in volume by 680 times through cooling to -250°F.

Yule Parade Date Chosen, Bands Sought

A committee of Union City Jaycees, meeting with members of the Union City Retail Merchants Assn. have selected Thursday, Dec. 2, for the 1965 Union City Christmas Parade.

Howard Burns, chairman of this year's event, said committee members now are selecting bands and that as many as 11 may be in the fold within the next few days.

Dr. Charles Desbureaux, ROTC color guard and drill team also will be featured again this year, Mr. Burns said.

Dr. Charles Desbureaux has been named chairman of the float committee.

Named judges to chairmen to work with Mr. Burns were Johnny Fowler and J. T. Vaughan.

Mr. Burns said another meeting with local merchants will be held in the near future to decide upon a budget and a list of prizes and trophies to be awarded to parade winners.

GRAND PRIZE WINNER - Perhaps the greatest honor in the third annual International Banana Festival at Fulton was won by the city of Greenfield when its float, "The Old Mission", was voted the most outstanding entry in the huge non-professional float competition. A $200 cash award was presented the city for its first-place finish with Mrs. Bill Voorhies accepting in behalf of the city. The float competition was witnessed by thousands of visitors from numerous states and foreign countries and brought much favorable publicity to the city of Greenfield.

Greenfield Float Wins Top Award At Banana Festival

One of the outstanding awards at the third annual International Banana Festival went to the city of Greenfield last week when its float won first place in the non-professional float division. The award by the beautiful Greenfield float was won at the climactic parade competition as the Festival reached its climax.

Placing behind the Greenfield entry among a large number of entries were South Fulton PTA, which placed second, and Hickman Chamber of Commerce, which was third.

Several other Weakley County entries also rated high in group and individual events of the Festival. The Martin High School Band, which had led the parade at the Greenfield Community Fair about nine days earlier, placed second in the Class B band division. Jimmy Harris of Martin was chosen as the outstanding drum major among all contestants. In the contest to select the International Banana Princess, a Martin girl, Cynthia Gay Vincent, was one of the five finalists. The Festival during its three days of activities drew crowds that totalled some 50,000 persons, according to official estimates. Numerous dignitaries of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Central American countries were present at one or more of the events with Tennessee's 8th Congressional District Congressman Robert A. Everett, attending Saturday.

The Greenfield float had as its theme, "The Old Mission," and was a truly beautiful and colorful pictorialization of a mission. A cash award of $200 was presented the city by Festival officials and was accepted on behalf of the city by Mrs. Bill Voorhies. Mr. Voorhies, Major Jack Hughes, and Congressman Jerry Jaley were also present at the presentation. Members of Greenfield's own royalty rode the float and gave their own touch of beauty to the scene. They included Queen Martha Ann Mullins, Deborah Browning, first maid; Doris Bethel, second maid; Patricia Prins, first alternate; and Beth Browning, second alternate.

THE MUSEUM OF EARLY SOUTHERN DECORATIVE ARTS

A Distinctive Collection of Antiquities and Arts Produced in the Early South

The South enjoys the status of being the "furniture capital" of the world, notes James Webb, Jr., Director of the Home Furnishings Industry Committee. Yet, until recently the works of early Southern craftsmen were relatively obscure, known only to the collector or serious student of Southern culture.

The mission of the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts is to bring to light those arts and antiquities produced in the South from 1690 to 1830.

The early South, because of its predominantly agrarian economy, did not create furniture and decorative arts that formed a "school of design" such as those in New York and Philadelphia. With the notable exceptions of Charles Town (Charleston) in the pre-revolutionary period and of the Baltimore-Annapolis area starting in the Federal period, there were few real centers of commerce where craftsmen could communicate their thoughts and designs to one another. Thus, an individuality of expression is characteristic of much of the work of the early Southern craftsmen, an individuality that set them apart from their northern counterparts.

On Tour

MESDA, as the Museum is popularly called by its initials, is located in the Old Salem historic area in Winston-Salem, N.C. It is owned and operated by the non-profit organization Old Salem, Inc. that has preserved and now exhibits the Moravian Congregation Town. MESDA consists of fifteen period rooms and four galleries. The rooms are reconstructed from Southern homes and date from 1690 to 1830. Arranged chronologically, they are furnished with decorative arts from Maryland, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky. The period furnishings include Jacobean, William and Mary, Queen Anne and Chippendale as well as the American interpretations during the Federal Period of Hepplewhite and Sheraton.

All but one of the rooms contain all or much of the original woodwork, floors, paneling and ceiling from the houses represented. The rooms are the same size and dimension of the original rooms.

Accessory items throughout MESDA were selected to duplicate those things used in the South during the periods represented in the Museum. Their selection was based on the study of early documents and reports of archaeological findings, and include pottery and porcelain from England, Germany and the Orient, brass and ironware from England and Holland.

The first and earliest room in MESDA is "Criss Cross Hall," dated 1690 and copies a home by the same name in New Kent County, Virginia. Furnished to the Jacobean period, the room includes a rare 1690 court cupboard of that period.

THE SIMPLE CRAFTS OF A PIONEER SOCIETY are reflected in the Pocumoke Room in the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts. Reconstructed from a one room and left home that stood on the eastern shore of Maryland, the room has been restored to 1700-1725. Many of the furnishings in this room were interpretations of William and Mary design. Several features of the room are quite unusual, among them, a blue and red paint treatment which follows the original colors and pattern.

The latest room in the Museum is "Whitehall," a dramatic dining room reconstructed from a plantation of the same name located in the Cooper-Santee River Valley of South Carolina. Dated around 1818, this beautiful room is furnished primarily with very fine Hepplewhite pieces.

Between these two rooms, the culture of the South as reflected in its decorative arts unfolds to the visitor. It is interesting to note how, during the same period, furnishings varied so greatly. In the "Piedmont Room" one sees a reconstructed stone-end house standing in 1766 in eastern Guilford County, N.C. The appeal of this room is its folk art, sometimes completely unorthodox but presenting an excellent example of real pioneer society. From this same period one sees the "Edenton Hall, Parlor and Bedroom," reconstructed from a home in Edenton, N.C. Furnished in Chippendale pieces, its refinement and polish is in marked contrast with the simple "Piedmont Room." The sophistication of Edenton rooms is further contrasted with another setting. The "Edgecombe" dining room shows the visitor a rather provincial interpretation of Chippendale designs.

MESDA has been called the "Winterthur of the South" Webb said. Certainly no other collection exists that brings together the architectural, decorative and fine arts of the early South with such depth and scope. The serious student of Southern culture, the designer, antiques buff or average homemaker will each find inspiration in the Museum of Early Southern Decorative Arts.

Romantic and Enduring

This handsome group of bedroom furniture, "Adventure" from Broyhill's Lenoir House and made of Appalachian Oak, as shown in this very inviting setting, comes in a rich antique oak finish in a dark reddish brown (with grey wax applied after finishing to fill the grain and enhance the antiqued appearance). typical use of the Spanish mouldings and the very solidarity of this great wood are enough to satisfy most masculine tastes; whereas the masterful use of the arabesque panels contributes a romantic note completely appealing to the feminine spirit.

The apricot gold carpeting and paler apricot walls fade into off-white ceiling and cast a soft radiance over the rich dark wood tones in various lights. The bedspread is made very simple of a quilted type fabric in the same warm shade of apricot-gold as the wall to wall carpeting. The hangings behind the bed are in the colors of the walls and the floor covering, thus breaking their long expanse with this change of tone.

When a farmer dies, even the healthiest farm can be in danger. Before obligations become due immediately. But what if there is no cash to pay them?

And frequently, when they're divided among heirs, what's left of the farm is not sufficient to give them a living income. Will this be the case with your family?

Wendell P. Butler
Commissioner
Ky. Dept. of Agriculture

I, along with several thousand Kentuckians and a number of out-of-state and international visitors, had an opportunity to attend two entertaining events last week. At Fulton, the annual Banana Festival drew an overflow crowd. Much planning and hard work went into this enjoyable occasion, and the people there are to be greatly commended for their efforts.

While bananas are not grown in the Fulton area, some 90 per cent of all banana shipments coming to the United States are handled by market stations in Fulton. Thus, we can see that the city can lay claim to being the "banana capital" of the United States.

Johnson County, in the other end of the State, observed its annual Apple Festival Saturday. Local people and visitors were on hand in large numbers to see the displays of fine fruit, along with the making of apple butter and cider. Too, they enjoyed the various types of apple pastries on sale throughout the city. Truly, "apples were king" in Paintsville throughout the day

Saturday.

Both these events, the Banana Festival at Fulton, and the Apple Festival in Johnson County, had a point in common. That is, the fact that they were held to promote a local industry. These two events fit well into the over-all program being conducted for Kentucky agriculture and industry today. We, of the Department, like to see these promotional projects planned and carried out by local communities, for it puts the spotlight on the products of our local industries.

In line with the promotion of Kentucky products and industries, October has been proclaimed by Governor Edward Breathitt as "Buy Kentucky Farm Products" month. The success of this promotion is vital not only to the rural or farm people, but to the processing and manufacturing firms as well. Because of this, the State Farm-City Committee is working hand-in-hand with the project.

An activity of the State Fair was the kick-off meeting for Farm-City Week observance. Although the week of November 19-25 has been designated as Farm-City Week, organization and planning for the event always occurs during the State Fair. This year the some 150 city and farm leaders who participated heard national Farm-City Week chairman, Kenneth H. Anderson of Chicago. Anderson reminded us that the signifi-
